CHAPTER 1: INTRODUCTION TO THE INTERNSHIP

1.1 Background of the Study

Internship training is an essential component of the Bachelor of Business Administration (BBA) curriculum, designed to bridge the gap between classroom learning and real-world professional practice. As part of this requirement, I, Haseena M, a student of the Department of Management Studies, ITM College of Arts and Science, Mayyil, undertook a 208-hour internship at Aerowis, Kozhikode, during the academic year 2024–2028.

Aerowis is a leading aviation training institute that provides professional courses and career guidance for aspiring aviation professionals. The organization focuses on developing skilled individuals through quality education, counselling, and training. This internship provided an excellent opportunity to understand the practical aspects of sales and marketing while working as an Academic Counsellor. It also helped me develop professional skills in student counselling, customer relationship management, communication, lead generation, and admission support.

1.2 Objectives of the Internship

- To understand the organizational structure and functioning of Aerowis.
- To gain practical exposure to sales and marketing activities in the aviation education sector.
- To understand the duties and responsibilities of an Academic Counsellor.
- To develop communication and counselling skills through interaction with prospective students.
- To learn customer relationship management (CRM) practices and lead generation techniques.
- To understand the admission process and student follow-up procedures.
- To enhance professional ethics, teamwork, and workplace discipline through practical experience.

1.3 Duration and Place of Internship

The internship was carried out for a total of 208 working hours at Aerowis, Kozhikode, from 01 April 2026 to 30 April 2026. During this period, I worked in the Sales and Marketing Department as an Academic Counsellor. I was involved in student counselling, handling enquiries through phone calls and WhatsApp, CRM management, follow-up activities, scholarship examination promotion, and admission support.

1.4 Methodology

The information presented in this report has been compiled through direct observation, practical work experience, active participation under the guidance of the Sales and Marketing team, discussions with company officials, participation in meetings and training sessions, and reference to the official website and organizational materials of Aerowis. The report is based entirely on the knowledge and experience gained during the internship. Confidential information relating to the organization and its clients has not been disclosed.

1.5 Scope and Limitations

The scope of this report is limited to the observations and practical experience gained during the internship at Aerowis, particularly within the Sales and Marketing Department. The report mainly focuses on the responsibilities performed as an Academic Counsellor, including student counselling, customer interaction, lead generation, CRM management, scholarship examination activities, and admission support. Since the internship was conducted for a period of 208 working hours, the report does not cover all functional areas of the organization. Certain confidential business information and strategic decisions of the company were not accessible during the internship and have therefore not been included in this report.

CHAPTER 2: PROFILE OF AEROWIS

2.1 About Aerowis

Aerowis is an aviation training institute located in Kozhikode, Kerala, specializing in Pilot Training Ground Classes. The institute is committed to preparing aspiring pilots by providing quality ground training based on aviation standards. Aerowis focuses on delivering the theoretical knowledge required for pilot training through experienced instructors, structured learning methods, and academic support. The institute also provides career guidance and counselling to students who aspire to build a successful career in the aviation industry.

2.2 Vision and Mission

- To become a leading institute for Pilot Training Ground Classes by providing quality aviation education.
- To equip aspiring pilots with the theoretical knowledge, professional skills, and confidence required for a successful aviation career.
- To provide expert academic counselling and career guidance to students pursuing pilot training.
- To create a student-centred learning environment that promotes excellence, discipline, and continuous improvement.
- To support students throughout their learning journey with experienced faculty, quality education, and professional guidance.
- To uphold high standards of integrity, innovation, and excellence in aviation training and education.

2.3 Services Offered

Aerowis offers the following services:

- Pilot Training Ground Classes.
- Academic counselling for aspiring pilots.
- Career guidance for aviation students.
- Scholarship examination and admission support.
- Student enquiry handling and follow-up services.

- Admission assistance for pilot training programmes.

2.4 Organizational Structure

Aerowis functions under the supervision of the Management Team and operates through different functional departments, including the Sales and Marketing Department, Academic Counselling, Administration, and Student Support. During my internship, I worked as an Academic Counsellor in the Sales and Marketing Department, where I handled student enquiries, lead generation, follow-up activities, admission counselling, scholarship examination promotion, and customer relationship management (CRM). The coordinated efforts of these departments ensure the smooth functioning of the organization and provide quality support to aspiring pilot trainees.

CHAPTER 3: DEPARTMENTS OBSERVED AND WORK PERFORMED

During my 208-hour internship at Aerowis, I worked in the Sales and Marketing Department as an Academic Counsellor. Under the guidance of the team members, I was involved in various activities related to student counselling, marketing, customer relationship management, and admission support. A summary of the work performed is presented below.

3.1 Orientation and Company Introduction

I attended the internship orientation program and learned about the organizational structure, services, and functioning of Aerowis. I also gained an understanding of the Pilot Training Ground Classes offered by the institute and attended aviation-related training sessions and podcasts.

3.2 Academic Counselling

As an Academic Counsellor, I interacted with prospective students through phone calls and WhatsApp. I provided information about pilot training, answered enquiries, guided students regarding courses, and assisted them throughout the admission process.

3.3 Sales and Marketing Activities

I participated in various sales and marketing activities, including lead generation, follow-up with prospective students, preparing promotional content, and maintaining regular communication with potential candidates to increase admissions.

3.4 CRM and Data Management

I learned to use Workpex and maintained CRM sheets by recording student details, updating lead status, organizing bulk data, and tracking follow-up activities.

3.5 Scholarship Examination Support

I actively participated in promoting the scholarship examination by contacting students, encouraging registrations, sharing the syllabus and examination details, issuing hall tickets, assisting during the examination, helping in answer sheet evaluation, and communicating examination results to students.

3.6 Total Duration of Engagement

The total duration of the internship was 208 working hours, completed from 01 April 2026 to 30 April 2026 at Aerowis, Kozhikode. During this period, I gained practical exposure to academic counselling, sales and marketing, customer relationship management, and admission support activities.

CHAPTER 4: LEARNING OUTCOME

The internship at Aerowis helped me gain practical knowledge and improve my professional skills. The key learning outcomes are as follows:

- Gained practical exposure to the day-to-day activities of the Sales and Marketing Department.
- Developed effective communication and academic counselling skills through student interactions.
- Learned lead generation, follow-up techniques, and customer relationship management (CRM).
- Acquired practical knowledge of using Workpex and maintaining CRM records efficiently.
- Improved telephone and WhatsApp communication while handling student enquiries.
- Gained experience in preparing promotional content for marketing activities.
- Understood the process of promoting scholarship examinations and increasing student registrations.
- Learned the procedures for issuing hall tickets and coordinating scholarship examinations.
- Assisted in evaluating answer sheets and communicating examination results to students.
- Enhanced teamwork, time management, and problem-solving skills by working with colleagues.
- Developed professionalism, confidence, and discipline in a corporate work environment.
- Gained a better understanding of the admission process and the role of academic counselling.

CHAPTER 5: CONCLUSION

The internship at Aerowis was a valuable learning experience that helped me apply the theoretical knowledge gained during my Bachelor of Business Administration (BBA) course to a professional work environment. Working as an Academic Counsellor in the Sales and Marketing Department provided me with practical exposure to student counselling, lead generation, customer relationship management, admission support, and marketing activities.

Throughout the 208-hour internship, I developed essential professional skills such as communication, teamwork, time management, problem-solving, and workplace discipline. Participating in scholarship examination activities and interacting with prospective students enhanced my confidence and understanding of the aviation education sector. I am grateful to Aerowis and ITM College of Arts and Science, Mayyil, for providing me with this opportunity, and I believe the knowledge and experience gained during the internship will be beneficial for my future academic and professional career in management.
